5 Signature Guarantee (Required)

A signature guarantee is a method of identity verification that protects against fraud. It can be obtained from a bank, trust company, or other financial institution.

A notary public is not an acceptable guarantor since it does not include financial assurance against fraudulent activity.

If the owner of this fund account is not also listed as an owner of this bank account, then the bank account owner's signature must also be guaranteed—please do so in Section 3. And if the bank account is that for a corporation, additional requirements may also apply—please contact Calamos for further details.
