One Solution May Help Address Multiple Asset Allocation Needs

Calamos Growth and Income Fund offers a differentiated approach to equity participation, risk management and income generation. As a result, it can help advisors solve for a range of client needs.

Example 1: Investor Seeking a Core, Lower-Volatility Equity Allocation

Many investors recognize the importance of long-term equity exposure but want to mitigate volatility. Calamos Growth and Income Fund has historically delivered both, providing market outperformance with below-market volatility since inception. A hypothetical $10,000 investment in the fund at its inception, with all distributions reinvested, would have outperformed the broad stock market, as measured by the S&P 500 Index, with less volatility, as measured by standard deviation.

... WITH LESS VOLATILITY

Example 2: Investor Seeking Equity Participation with Income

Other investors may place a greater emphasis on current income as they pursue capital appreciation. A hypothetical $10,000 investment in the fund at its inception that reinvested capital gains but paid out dividends would have provided meaningful capital appreciation—and income.

Growth of $10,000 is for the Fund's Class A shares and includes the Fund's maximum front-end sales charge of 4.75% for a net initial investment of $9,525. Results are before taxes on fund distributions and assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, except as noted. Index data shown is from 9/30/88, since comparative index data is available only for full monthly periods. Source: Morningstar.

Standard deviation is a statistical measure of the historical volatility of a mutual fund or portfolio, with higher values indicating greater volatility. Data shown is for Class A shares.

Logarithmic scales can be useful when looking at performance data over a long period. Common percent changes are represented by an equal spacing between the numbers in the scale. For example, the distance between $1 and $2 is equal to the distance between $2 and $4 because both scenarios represent a 100% increase in price.
