WEEKLY HEADLINES

The V-Shaped Bottom: We've Been Here Before

Unlike the government shutdown which is said to be in uncharted territory, today's equity market—95 days from September 20 peak to December 24 trough—is being described as a V-shaped bottom for which there are many historical references.

An extensive video from Ciovacco Capital reviews examples of V-bottoms that were both bullish for stocks (in 1987, 1998, 2011 and 2016) and bearish (2001, two periods in 2008 and 2015).

And, while it may seem as if markets are moving faster, the price action is within historical norms. Yesterday's A Wealth of Common Sense post said it could find no support for the notion that technology has changed the speed of market cycles, accelerating the speed of downdrafts and recoveries. Environments pre-Internet and in today's information age both are "filled with quick market moves, drawn-out bear markets, short recoveries, brutally long sideways periods and everything in between."

Above we track the weekly performance of $100,000 invested in a traditional 60% stock/40% bond portfolio against a portfolio with 50% stocks and 10% long/short equity and 30% bonds and 10% market neutral. The S&P 500 is the proxy for stocks, Bloomberg Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index for bonds, and the Morningstar U.S. Fund Long/Short Equity and US Fund Market Neutral categories for the alternatives. Both portfolios are rebalanced annually.

Definitions and Disclosures

The Nontraditional Bond category contains funds that pursue strategies divergent in one or more ways from conventional practice in the broader bond-fund universe. Multialternative funds offer investors exposure to several different alternative investment tactics. Funds in this category have a majority of their assets exposed to alternative strategies. Bear Market funds dedicate a majority of the fund's assets to equities. Most of the portfolio is dedicated to short stock positions in an attempt to take advantage of anticipated market or stock declines. Managed Futures funds primarily trade liquid global futures, options, swaps, and foreign exchange contracts, both listed and over-the-counter. Commodities Broad-basket portfolios can invest in a diversified basket of commodity goods including but not limited to grains, minerals, metals, livestock, cotton, oils, sugar, coffee, and cocoa. Commodities Precious Metals can invest in precious metals such as gold, silver, platinum, and palladium. Energy Limited Partnership strategies invest a significant amount of their portfolio in energy master limited partnerships, also known as MLPs. Multicurrency portfolios invest in multiple currencies through the use of short-term money market instruments; derivative instruments including and not limited to forward currency contracts, index swaps, and options; and cash deposits. Market Neutral funds attempt to reduce systematic risk created by factors such as exposures to sectors, market-cap ranges, investment styles, currencies, and/or countries. Real Estate portfolios invest primarily in real estate investment trusts of various types. REITs are companies that develop and manage real estate properties. Convertible-bond portfolios are designed to offer some of the capital-appreciation potential of stock portfolios while also supplying some of the safety and yield of bond portfolios. Options-based funds use options as a central component of their investment strategies. Long-Short Credit funds seek to profit from changes in the credit conditions of individual bond issuers and credit markets segments represented by credit indexes. Long-Short Equity funds hold sizeable stakes in both long and short positions in equities, exchange traded funds, and related derivatives.
